Research-led design for health and wellbeing

In 2008 – as evidence emerged into the impact static working had on health, happiness and productivity – Peter Schiavello set out to develop the first Australian designed and manufactured sit/stand workstation based on how the human body has evolved to move. Today, this product is known as Krossi Workstation.

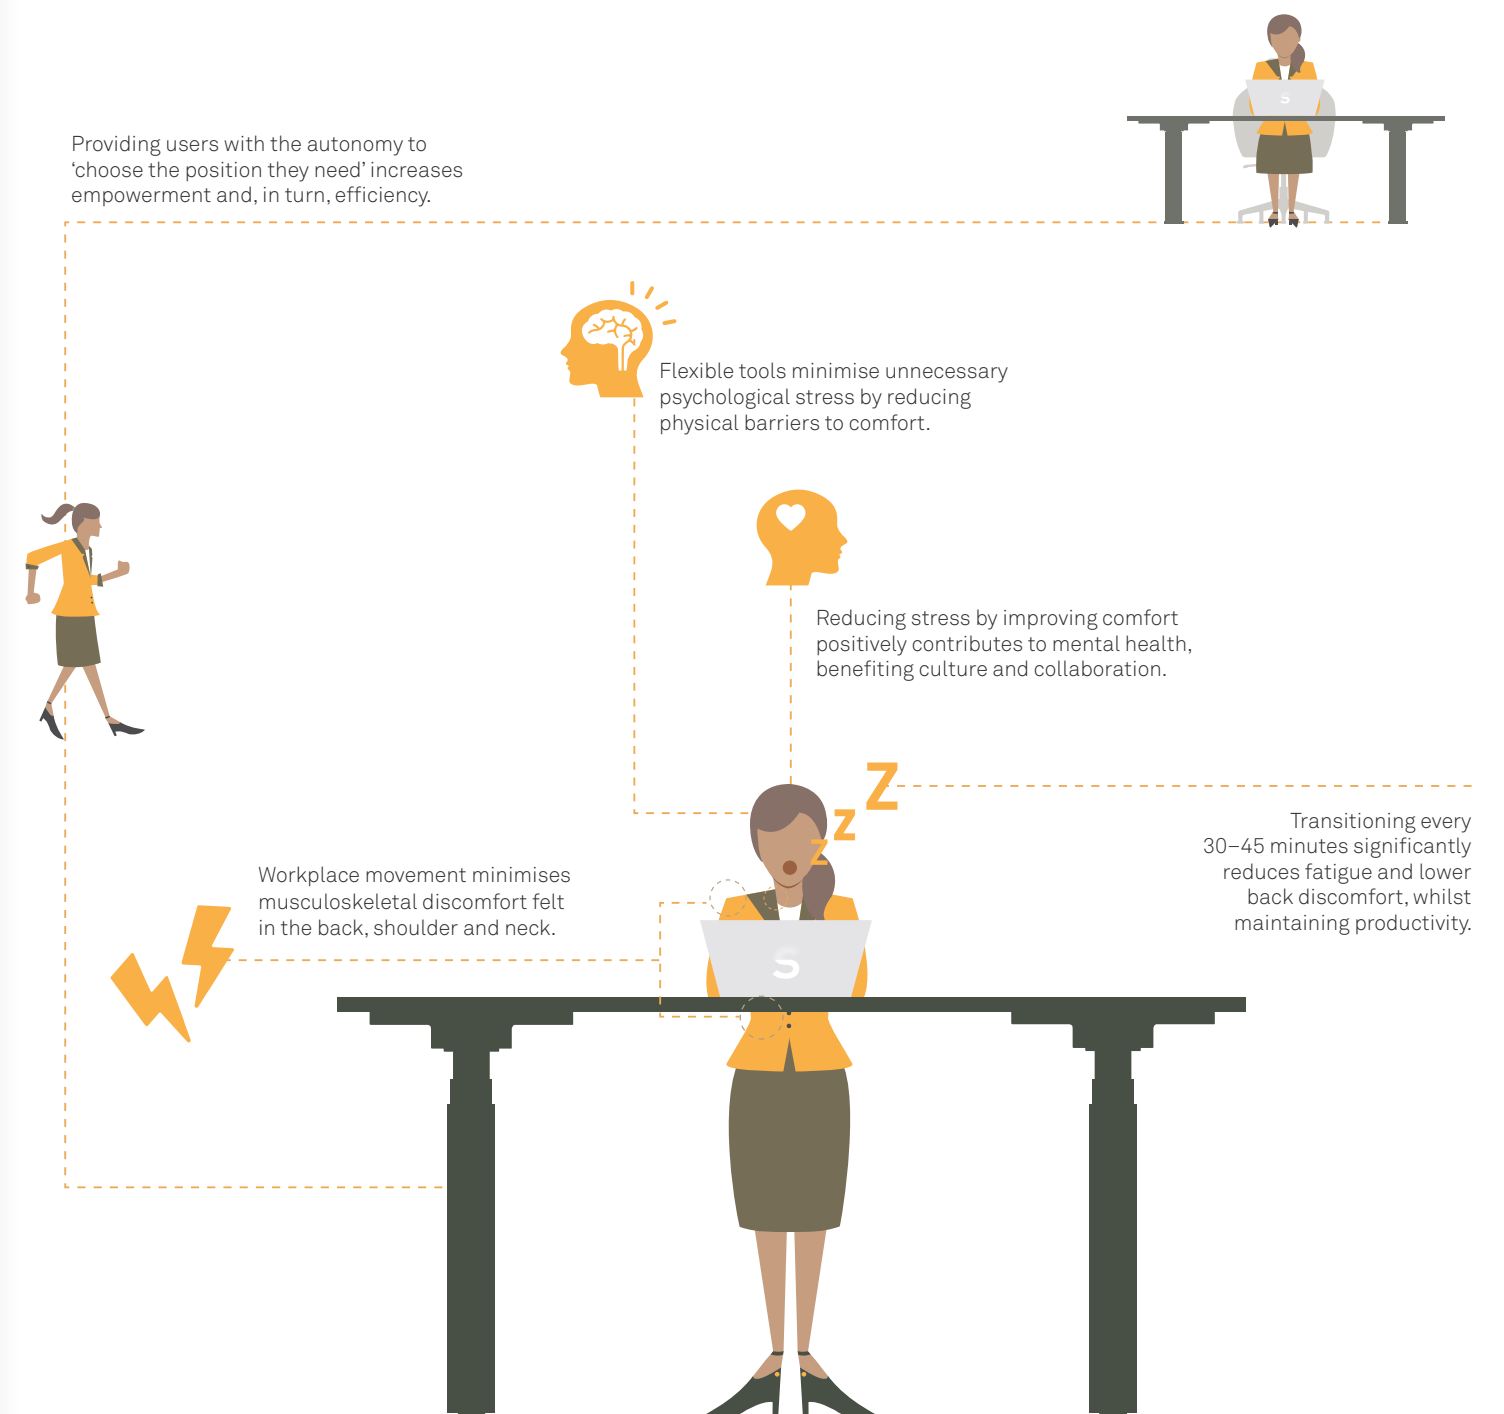

Leveraging research by Schiavello’s Knowledge Hub, the people-centred design was founded on flexible working postures and intuitive adjustments, enabling users to simply and naturally transition from sitting to standing. The easier it is to transition, the more often it will be used and more effectively address the negative impacts that both sitting and standing for long periods of time can have on an individual’s physical comfort and long-term health. These findings are what form the foundational thinking of Arch today.

“By fitting working tools to the body, instead of one’s body to the tools, energetic and dynamic working environments can be tuned to inspire creativity and innovation.”

Powered by an electric system, desk height is displayed on a LCD screen, Arch boasts memory capability to store up to four preferred height variations, putting user convenience at the fore.

By empowering each individual with complete control, flexibility and adjustment over their work point, health and wellbeing benefits include:

Introducing Arch Workstation

Human-centred design

Pronounced through its statement square leg profile, Arch is Schiavello's geometric sit-stand workstation. Reaching heights up to 1220mm, Arch Workstation promotes workplace movement, health and wellbeing presented in a distinctive design language.

All Arch workstations are equipped with anti-collision technology, a safety feature to avoid property damage while height is being adjusted.

Ecology and sustainability

Schiavello's most important commitment to sustainability is the company-wide Environmental Management System under ISO 14001. The environmental design principles realised means we design for the environment, focusing on efficient energy use and minimum emissions, longevity and durability, re-use and recycling of our products.

Our principles of ME WE (Materials, Energy, Waste Emissions) give us a simple way to think about how our operations impact the environment.

Printed on an Australian made paper stock that is PEFC Certified and made from elemental chlorine-free bleached pulp sourced from sustainably managed forests and non-controversial sources. It is manufactured by an ISO 14001 certified mill using renewable energy sources.
