SAM HAUGHTON

New Zealand-born Sam Haughton made his debut in the design arena in 1992, creating one-off furniture elements.

A self-taught designer, Sam is celebrated for his hands-on approach to production and his ability to make an intricate and detailed production process appear effortless. His designs are characterised by their honest use of modern materials, rigorous attention to detail and understated elegance.

Haughton’s philosophy heralds from ‘against throw-away-ism’, an ethos that promotes intelligent design and construction in order to create everyday products that last a lifetime – products such as Kase.

With a contemporary and timeless design, Kase is a user-friendly storage system that addresses an individual's needs across all interiors.

Kase is an adaptable storage system that can be incorporated into interior environments as a credenza, bookshelf, file system or divisional element.

Accessories include shelves, drawers, cupboards, infill panels, bookends, function walls, accessory trays, planter boxes and seat cushions which provide boundless storage possibilities to suit all functional needs.

Designed by Sam Haughton, it is customisable – able to continually suit a home or office space that may move or change. It is accessible from both sides, made up of freestanding modules that are engineered for instant reconfiguration, and features height adjustable shelves, moveable bookends, and the ability to retrofit elements.

Kase features a timeless, minimalistic aesthetic alongside zinc seal shelving and panels, which are available in a range of powder coats from Schiavello's ColourLab palette.

ColourLab

Schiavello’s innovative ColourLab brings a considered and cohesive palette of finishes to working and living spaces. Curated by Giulio Ridolfo and developed by Schiavello, the new palette beautifully balances colour, texture and layering across a variety of materials.
